The entire neighborhood was aroused and men, women and children rushed to the fire.

Before the engines arrived the rear of the buildings on One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street began to smoke with the heat, and one of the window blinds of No. 740 caught fire. The families occupying the three houses were forced to leave in haste.

Through the flames in the stable a big horse was seen to tear away from his fastenings in a stall and plunge madly towards the door. He made one jump, but was overcome by the flames and fell to the floor of the furnace-like stable. Twice he raised his head

The body of the man near the door was removed to the street. It was burned beyond recognition. One of the bystanders, however, ight it was that of William McGoldrick. He was nineteen years old and worked for William Gillespie, a milkman.

Near a stall, in a frightfully contorted posttion, was found the charred body of another young man, whose name the police gave as Richard Sinciair, who drove a wagon for one of the milkmen. This body was also re-

Edna Welsh's Body Washed Ashore at South Beach To-Day.

Last Seen Going to Her Room In McVey's Hotel.

Had a Roll of Bills and Walked on the Beach as Early as 4 A. M.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.) CLIPTON, S. L. July 5.—At about 6 o'clock this morning, while a clam-digger was rowing near the lower pier at South Beach he discovered the body of a young woman which had been washed up on the beach.

He fastened a line about the remains and towed the body to the dock, where it was Before the Coroner arrived Edward McVey. proprietor of the Pleasant View House, idenified the woman as Edna Welsh, who had been living at his house for the past two veeks.

McVey said that the woman told him she was a cock by occupation, and that she was on a two weeks' vacation. She acted strangely and made but few friends at South Beach. While she was at McVey's Hotel no one called there to see her. She only slept in the hotel and took her meals elsewhere.

Edna was last seen alive shortly after 7.30 last night, when she went to her room in McVey's Hotel, as supposed, to retire. Nothing unusual was noticed in her conduct, and her death is surround at in mystery. As far as can be learned no one saw he leave her room this morning. She was in the hatt. of getting up about 4 A. M., and often took an early morning stroll along the plank walk. It is not known whether she committed suicide, fell into the water accidentally or afternoon white recklessly discharging a pistol.

Gumar, an ierman, was driving through to his morgue in Stapleton. The Coroner Schaefer had the remains removed to his morgue in Stapleton. The Coroner made a hasty exterior examination of the body, but found no marks of violence. The woman was plainly but neatly dressed, and the condition of her clothing did not indicate that she had been in a struggle. The Coroner will have an autopsy made to determine the cause of death. An examination of the effects in the woman's room at the hotel failed to throw any light on the mys-tery. She was about thirty-five years of age, dark complexioned, 5 feet 7 inches in height and weighed about 140 pounds. A report was circulated at South Beach this morning that the woman was seen yesterday displaying a roll of bills while buying a glass
